FRANCE'S CRISIS OVER

Premier Tells His Plans For the Future.

SYMPATHY FOR DREYFUS

AT THE SAME TIME HE PRAISES THE ARMY.

Paris, Oct. 28.-M. Waldeck Rosseau yesterday delivered at Toulouse the anxiously awaited speech outlining the policy and programme of the government in anticipation of the reassembling of parliament. The occasion was the laying of the corner stone of the new barracks there. The premier left Paris Saturday and arrived at Toulouse yesterday morning (Sunday). He was received by the mayor, senators and deputies of the department and other officials. The city was gaily decorated and the populace cheered M. Waldeck

The archbishop of Toulouse and generals of the army corps delivered addresses assuring the premier, in behalf of the clergy and the army, of respect for him and attachment to the republic.

The premier reserved his principal effort for the banquet which followed the ceremony. This was given by the municipality in an ancient Jacobite convent, where the dining hall was elaborately decorated with the tri-colors. Devoting the principal part of his speech to answering criticisms, he said he had not replade the widest and clearest mandate, because it was time to act and not time to talk, and because he and his colleagues looked to the chamber of deputies alone for approbation or censure of their conduct. Alluding to the great demonstration of mayors in Paris, which he described as the "most striking consecration any regime has ever received," he said that France had in this way shown how little she was moved by placed accusations against

Proceeding to sketch the gloomy situation that existed when the cabinet took office—"with agitation increasing and nationalism engaging in daily battles with the police"—he said that to face this condition of things a sincere concentration of prophlicans was concentration of republicans was brought about, "yet not by conceding to each member of the cabinet something which separated him from the others, but by excluding everything that tended to division and retaining all that tended to unity."

Going on to discuss the government programme, he said it did not include collectivism, but that this did not significant the policy of republican union nify that the policy of republican union excluded social forms. He spoke of the success of the government in sup-pressing systematic agitation and street demonstrations, adding that the country might hope during the present calm to see marks of sincere repentance on the part of the anti-republicans.

Refers to Dreyfus.

Alluding to what he described as the "last act of the pregnant Dreyfus drama," he said that the judgment was given in complete independence and that the decision remained respected, but that, at the same time, humanity had found satisfaction in a "measure of clemency that has been ratified by the generous heart of our great counthe generous heart of our great coun

"When the exposition opened the government deemed that, after undergoing such violent shocks, the country would be left to taste the benefits of a needful truce. This period of peace has been filled with glorious work. No more fruitful ideas were ever agitated than came to the front in the exposithan came to the front in the exposi-tion congresses."

Aims Blow at Religions.

The premier dwelt upon the necessity of forcing discipline among state officials. He expressed the hope that the budget would be voted, and referred to the projected diminution of the excise duty on alcohol, which is one of the leading internal questions. leading internal questions. He enlarged leading internal questions. He enlarged upon the necessity that the chamber should pass a law regulating associations, a measure directed against religious congregations. He dilated upon the dangers attending the accumulation by the particular in the second of the control of ion by such parties of immense properties, and the evil of teaching prejudice to the republic, declaring that "the existence of such a rival power within the state constitutes an intolerable situation which demands an immediate solution."

reciprocity agreement was entered into and proclaimed by the president about a year ago, and granted certain reduction of duties on still wines, brandles and other articles in return for equivalent reduction of duties on certain American imports into France. The French version of the treaty which was executed along with the English text, contained the word "fleeurs," covering a number of cordials and like products brought to this country. The treasury department held, however, that under the reciprocity clause of the Dingley tariff law "fleeurs" could not be made the subject of reciprocity concessions. The matter was taken into the courts, where it was decided in favor of the French authorities. The decision was not appealed and on recommendation of the attorney general was accepted. Recently, however, the Swiss government put in a claim under its favored clause for the same reduction on liqueurs as was "ven to France. This has led the to "y department to again make an east to oppose a reduction of duty on such articles. From the French standpoint the matter is not only one of treaty, but the construction of that treaty has been adjudicated by the American courts and the adjudication accepted. This French view of the situation has now been brought to the attention of the state department with a view of having the matter settled as it has been decided by the courts.

UNION IN POSTOFFICE.

Clerks Combine to Secure Several Reforms.

Cheago, Oct. 28.-The postoffice clerks trade unionists. The clerks have affiliated themselves with the American Federation of Labor, and the new organization will be known as the Chicago Posteffice Clerks' union. It is claimed that practically all of the 1,400 postoffice employers in Chicago are included in the movement. Foremest among the objects for which the new union is to strive will be the adoption of the eight-hour working day for letter-carriers. Another object to be given aimost equal prominence will be the agitation in favor of federal legislation that will fix absolutely the rate of wages for letter-carriers and other postoffice employees, taking the matter completely out of the hands of the "Promotion board," and other similar agencies. It is to be a labor union pure and simple, and will direct its efforts solely to the problem of bettering the lot of the rank and file of the postoffice employees. The clerks have affilia

HOHENLOHE SAYS KAISER'S SNUBBING WAS WHAT MADE HIM RESIGN

Berlin, Oct. 28.—Prince Hohenlohe, in conversation with a representative of the Associated Press, made some interesting statements regarding his resignation of the chancellorship. Although expressing himself with great caution, he cited as the principal reason for resigning the fact that he had noticed for some time a growing desire to ignore him on important occasions. He admitted that his increasing deafness, especially in the left ear, had made it annoying for Emperor William to converse with him.

While Prince Hohenlohe would not say precisely what recent occasion had emphasized this inclination to ignore him, he asserted that this was the immediate cause of his going to Hamburg with a written request to relinquish his official
